

Affordable Massage for Your Workplace or Events

Reduce stress in your organisation

Stress is one of the most destructive forces on our bodies, and by extension, our workplaces and society.

For thousands of years massage has been acknowledged as a way of reducing stress. Seated massage has made massage more versatile and affordable than ever - this type of massage is typically shorter, and therefore cheaper than traditional table massages. However, seated massage can be just as effective in reducing tension in the head, neck, shoulders, back, arms and hands.

Revive Onsite Massage can provide seated massage in offices, other workplaces, events, tradeshows, shops, festivals, fetes, community events, sporting events, parties, hens nights, baby showers, pre-wedding events, homes, outdoors and virtually anywhere where there is small, flat surface. Each seated massage can be adapted to 15, 20 or 30 minutes.

Benefits of Seated Massage

Reduce stress - Stressed out, tense employees are not working (and cannot work) at their optimum performance. Regular massage can reduce stress and physical tension, and increase mental alertness. Many companies now provide seated massage for their employees, and have reported reductions in sick leave, absenteeism and workplace injury. Less stressed employees are happier and more productive, which ultimately helps your company's bottom line.

Value your employees - What better way to appreciate your employees than by providing them with regular seated massages. As well as considering financial benefits, employees often make their decision to join, stay with or leave a company based on the non-monetary lifestyle benefits they receive. Seated massage is an ideal way to show your employees you value their wellbeing.

Attract people to your booth/stand - Seated massage requires very little space and can be a great way of attracting people to your booth at conferences and trade shows. Who can say no to a free massage? While people are queuing up for their massages (and they will queue!), your sales team has the perfect opportunity to casually qualify your prospects.
